1. What are the two most used rooms in a home?
2. Is it cheaper to let a leak continue or to fix it right away?
3. Who can you call to fix several things around your home all in one visit?

To get the answers to these simply read the article to your right, "Expecting Guests?"

Expecting Guests?

By Joseph Prescia

Are you ready for the Holidays?

Putting your best foot forward may involve having your home in great shape. It could be embarrassing to explain to your guests how to flush the toilet because the handle sticks or to tell them to be careful not to trip near the chipped tile.

It's far more relaxing to have things in proper shape to help keep the stress off.

Lighting

A new light fixture could make things brighter, especially in the kitchen. Make sure you can see what you are stuffing that turkey with, otherwise you could be surprised at dinner.

Fresh Paint

A fresh coat of paint in the kitchen and bath can make the entire home feel new and loved. These areas are used more often and require more maintenance than any other room.

A New Floor

New hardwood, vinyl or ceramic tile can completely change a room. Again, the kitchen and bath are the most used and require materials that will last for years to come. Quality products and a qualified installer are a must.

Plumbing Repair

A leaky toilet or faucet can waste a lot of water. You end up paying in the long run by waiting to fix the problem.

Drywall

You could double the square footage of your home by dry walling your basement. Or simply fix some existing holes in the wall?

One Call For All

A professional handyman who has years of experience should be the only logical choice. At American Joe, we have specialists in each field who have been doing their jobs for years. They have proven their ability to watch for the smallest of details.

Do you have food to eat?

Do you have a warm place to call home?

Do you have someone in this world that loves you?

Do you have abilities and skills that can be developed?

Do you have something to be thankful for?

Being Your Best

By Joseph Prescia

Being thankful is more than just a holiday; it's a way of life. It's easy to be thankful for a day, but the challenge is to find things to be thankful for week after week, month after month.

Mindset vs. Thought

A thought can come and go but mindset takes a while to develop.

That's probably why so many refuse to properly develop a desired mindset. They don't want to take the time to watch each and every thought that enters their mind. It's just like a computer; garbage in, garbage out.

Being Thankful

What things can you list that you are thankful for? Can you fill a page? Do you have trouble making the list?

Too Much TV?

Outside influences can build you up or tear you down. How much positive news is on the front page of your newspaper? How much of that news builds you up and makes you feel good about yourself?

Brick by Brick

You don't build a house in a day. Neither can you develop a thankful mindset in a day. It takes time, but the long-term rewards are priceless if you simply start with today's brick.
